

TEXAS A&M AGRILIFE EXTENSION

Do you want to make a difference?

Have flexibility in your career?

Work with both youth and adults?

Have an impact on the State of Texas?

Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service Is Looking For You!

SUMMER EXTENSION INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service is currently accepting applications from students interested in participating in our Summer Internship Program. The Notice of Vacancy is open on GreatJobs.tamu.edu and is ready to receive your application! To locate job posting on GreatJobs.tamu.edu use the Search Postings link and use NOV number: 08126. A direct link: <http://greatjobs.tamu.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=190884>

Texas A&M Texas AgriLife Extension Service is a member of The Texas A&M University System. Texas A&M is part of the nationwide system of land-grant universities whose mission is teaching, research and extension. The Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service, with some 900 professional educators located at Texas A&M and at 12 districts and 251 county offices, operates in a unique partnership with federal, state and county government to address the needs of local citizens. AgriLife Extension education encompasses the broad areas of food and fiber systems, environment and natural resources, family and consumer sciences, 4-H youth development, and communities.